

The InSource Group History

The InSource Group has been providing information technology professionals to client companies for nearly two decades. Founded in 1992 by Linda Dietrich, and joined by A. Steven Raab in 1995, The InSource Group became one of the first staffing firms to offer a suite of staffing solutions to its clients including full-time, contract and contract-to-hire options.

The InSource Group continued to grow, merging with Acclaim Services, a staffing company specializing in the telecom industry, in January of 2001. The merger enhanced the company's ability to offer expertise in staffing resources for information technology and telecom industries in the Dallas Fort Worth Metroplex.

Having concentrated its efforts on developing client relationships with major companies that use technology to run their businesses every day, The InSource Group not only survived the economic downturn of the early 2000's but also actually grew the number of contractors placed with client offices. When the market forced staffing industry profit margins down, The InSource Group maintained profitability through the difficult years and was well positioned to capitalize on the recovery that began in 2004.

The company continues to grow and thrive through economic highs and lows, with a dedication to providing a diverse client base the highest caliber IT staffing solutions.
